

Jim McDonald

Partner & CMO

About Jim

Jim is a Chief Outsiders Partner and CMO based in Austin, Texas. He helps B2B and B2C companies increase revenues by developing new channel strategies, launching new products and expanding into new markets. Jim makes full use of branding, direct response, search and digital marketing and all types of advertising, sales promotion and PR to draw new customers and retain existing ones. He skillfully applies the disciplines learned at large national brands to revamp the customer experience, master the right mix of digital and traditional media, build brand differentiation and generate incremental sales and profits at smaller companies.

How Jim has Helped Businesses Grow

- Helped drive growth at more than 30 small-to-mid-sized businesses as one of Chief Outsiders' most successful practitioners.
- Acquired one million new members each year and improved customer retention rate by 35% as CMO for Bally Total Fitness.
- Boosted RadioShack's sales from $3.5 to $5 billion in five years as CMO, leading the introduction of new products and strategic partnerships with Sprint, Verizon, MSN, HP, DirecTV and others.
- Trained in classic package goods marketing disciplines at two global NY-based agencies, Young & Rubicam and DMB&B.
- Managed the Chevron retail gasoline and c-store business nationwide, and drove sales gains for Pizza Hut, Westin Hotels, Ford & Lincoln Mercury of Canada, Chase, Stouffer's, and El Torito restaurants.
- Produced the first television commercial ever filmed in outer space on the International Space Station coordinating with NASA and the Russian Space Agency.
